The Boeing 747-400 is a major development and the best-selling model of the Boeing 747 family of jet airliners. While retaining the four-engine wide-body layout of its predecessors, the 747-400 embodies numerous technological and structural changes to produce a more efficient airframe. Its most distinguishing features versus preceding 747 models are 6-foot winglets mounted on 6-foot wing tip extensions, which are found on all 747-400s except for Japanese domestic market versions. The 747-400 is equipped with a two-crew glass cockpit, which dispenses with the need for a flight engineer, along with more fuel-efficient engines, a horizontal stabilizer fuel tank, and revised fuselage/wing fairings. The aircraft also features an all-new interior with upgraded in-flight entertainment architecture. As on the 747-300, passenger variants include a stretched upper deck as standard. The model has a maximum capacity of 660 passengers with the 747-400D variant, and can fly non-stop for up to 7,670 nautical miles with maximum payload, depending on model. Northwest Airlines first placed the 747-400 in commercial service in February 9, 1989.

Conchita Wurst

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

(Redirected from Tom Neuwrith)

Thomas "Tom" Neuwrith (born 6 November 1988), better known by his drag stage persona Conchita Wurst, is an Austrian singer. Wurst came to international attention when winning the Eurovision Song Contest 2014 in Copenhagen, Denmark, with the song "Rise Like a Phoenix".

Born in Gmunden, Neuwrith moved to Graz to do his Matura with a focus on fashion, before embarking on a singing career through the 2007 casting show Starmania. He subsequently became a founding member of the short-lived boyband Jetzt Anders!. In 2011, Neuwrith began appearing as Wurst – a drag persona noted for her beard – and came second in the Austrian preselection for the Eurovision Song Contest 2012. Wurst was successfully selected to represent Austria at the Eurovision Song Contest 2014, where she proved victorious. Wurst's entry and victory courted controversy, being condemned by some of the continent's social conservatives and right-wingers who saw her performance as a promotion of LGBT rights. Conversely, it brought her international attention and established her as a prominent LGBT icon, resulting in invites to perform at various LGBT pride parades, the European Parliament, and the United Nations Office in Vienna.

Neuwrith describes himself as a gay man and uses female pronouns to describe his Wurst character, but male pronouns when referring to himself.[1][2]

Mercury

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Mercury commonly refers to:

- Mercury (element), a metallic chemical element with the symbol Hg and atomic number 80
- Mercury (planet), the smallest planet which orbits the Sun
- Mercury (mythology), a Roman god who travelled between the worlds of gods, humans and the dead

Mercury may also refer to:

Places [edit]

- Mercury Bay, a large V-shaped bay on the eastern coast of the Coromandel Peninsula on the North Island of New Zealand
- Mercury Fountain, a fountain in Tom Quad, Christ Church College, Oxford, England
- Mercury Islands, a group of islands off the northeast coast of New Zealand, consisting of one large island and six smaller islands
- Mercury, Nevada, a closed city in Nye County, Nevada, United States, situated within the Nevada Test Site
- Mercury, Savoie, a commune close to Albertville in the Savoie département in the Rhône-Alpes region in southeastern France

Transportation [edit]

- Mercury (automobile), a marque of automobile produced by the Ford Motor Company, 1938–2011
  - see also Merkur, a similar defunct Ford brand
- Mercury (cyclear), a United States cyclear (early small automobile) from 1914
- Mercury (train), a family of New York Central Streamliners passenger trains 1936–1958
Mercury had many talents. He could fly faster than most of the other gods, partly because of his winged sandals.

"If Remus... okay... work with him?" I whispered. I realized belatedly that I had been staring at Jacob before I blurted it out, but I could only be there at the scene, pales. "He doesn't like her much."

Edward's lips thinned in an odd way. "From me, this... bitterly. I know exactly what Jacob is thinking."

"Of course. I refrained, and looked at the group again."

"Haaah!" he challenged.

"Watch me."

Edward said. And then, very casually... I stepped out of the hall, open window and fell.

I watched carefully, analyzing the angle at which he lay his knees to absorb the impact. The sound of his falling was very low—a sudden thud that could have been a thin safety board, or a book gently laid on a table. It didn't look hard.
